Persisting through adversity

Despite a dry year affecting crops, Ponca Corn Harvest provides lessons on resiliency and community

November 2022
On the cover: An ear of Ponca corn in the warm sunshine of a late October afternoon. Drought conditions did impact the corn, but the survival of enough ears to provide seed for future crops is an example of resiliency for the Ponca people.

Ponca Corn Harvest provides lessons of hope and resiliency

On October 16, 2022, the Ponca Tribe of Nebraska was joined by Southern Ponca relatives and pipeline fighters for the Sacred Ponca Corn Harvest in Neligh, Nebraska, on Ponca Nation Land. Drought conditions over the summer had an impact on the corn, but not the spirits of those who joined together and braved the sandburrs to help with the harvest.
We’re planting seeds... will you help them grow?

Become an instrumental part of the growth of the Ponca Tribe of Nebraska Language Program! We have several upcoming openings for positions teaching the Ponca language, and facilitating that education process. YOU DO NOT NEED TO BE FLUENT IN PONCA TO APPLY! Successful candidates need only have the desire and dedication to learn, as training will be provided. The Tribe will soon be hiring the following positions:

- Language Instructors (4)
- Language Coordinator
- Culture Multimedia Specialist

Look for these jobs to be posted on the PTN website at https://www.poncatribe-ne.org/careers/ in the near future. Please contact Culture Director Ricky Wright with any questions at 402.371.8834 or rwrightjr@poncatribe-ne.org.
Senator Brewer honored in October 3rd ceremony in Ralston

On Monday, October 3, the Ponca Tribe of Nebraska held an early celebration of Native American Heritage month, as Senator Tom Brewer was honored by Congressman Don Bacon for his advocacy for the Native American community in Nebraska.

Since 2017, Senator Tom Brewer has been instrumental in many of the most momentous celebrations of the Ponca Tribe of Nebraska. From the dedication of statues of Chief Standing Bear in the Ponca Tribal homeland in Niobrara and in the nation’s capitol in Washington D.C. to advocating for the return of Standing Bear’s tomahawk to the Ponca Tribe to the renaming and dedication of the Chief Standing Bear Justice Administration Building, Senator Brewer has worked within the Nebraska legislature to promote the Ponca Tribe continually and the legacy of Chief Standing Bear. Senator Brewer remains a tireless advocate for all native peoples in the state of Nebraska.

Tribal disaster response discussed at resiliency conference

Emergency Services and Risk Manager Tori Champaign recently participated on a panel discussion at the Midwest Resilience and Preparedness Conference. Champaign, along with FEMA Tribal Liaison Sara Henry, and the Dodge County Emergency Manager discussed the impact of the 2019 flooding on the Ponca Tribe of Nebraska, and the lessons learned from that disaster.

The offices and clinics of the Ponca Tribe of Nebraska will be closed Friday, November 11th in observance of Veterans Day. Offices will reopen for clients Monday, November 14th.
Annual Health Fair showcases Ponca Health Services and community agencies

On Saturday, October 1, the Annual Health Fair was held in Ralston, Nebraska. Ponca Health Services and other community agencies had booths to provide education on programs and services to help achieve and maintain a healthy lifestyle.

The Ponca Tribe of Nebraska was also awarded a check for $25,000 from Medica that will go towards the creation of the Ponca Health Services Food Pantry to address food insecurity across the region. Lunch was provided along with activities, freebies, and a bike prize drawing.
Breast Cancer Awareness Month events held throughout Service Delivery Area

This October, the Ponca Tribe of Nebraska welcomed men and women to our Breast Cancer Awareness Events. We had a fantastic turnout (over 40 people in Omaha) of folks who donned their pink and joined us for lunch, a presentation from Great Plains tribal leaders health board, and prizes for the person wearing the most pink. For joining us for the afternoon, attendees received a brand new breast cancer awareness Ponca strong T-shirt.

Before kicking off the festivities in Omaha, Community Health Manager Nancie Velasquez and June Bear Noonan from the Nebraska Urban Indian Center honored Emily Dunn. Emily and her employer, Hy Vee, are friends and supporters of the Ponca Tribe. Emily was gifted with a blanket water bottle and a breast cancer awareness bag, as she is a breast cancer survivor.

Employees at all locations also participated, and wore their best pink for the day’s activities.

The Community Health Workers would like to thank everyone who showed up to our events in all our locations.
Hi everyone!! I am Kathleen Narlock RDH, BSDH, PHRDH. What that all means is that I am the Registered Dental Hygienist at the Omaha dental office. I have been at the Ponca Tribe for 14 years.

I was born in 1965 in Honolulu, Hawaii. I have a younger brother who teaches in Florida. I grew up moving a lot as a Navy “brat”. I call Wisconsin home (Yes, I am a BADGER fan) as that is where I graduated from high school and met my husband, Rick. We have been married for 38 years and have two sons, a daughter-in-law and a 9-year-old grandson. They live in LaVista, NE. My husband joined the Air Force in 1984 and his first duty station was Okinawa, Japan. My dental career started by taking the Red Cross Volunteer Dental assistant course. I had known since high school I wanted to be a dental hygienist. I had my son Stephen while in Japan. We moved to Utah where I took more classes towards my hygiene degree. My son Nicholas was born in Utah. Next, we moved to Missouri for just a year and then was transferred to Texas so that my son Nick could receive specialized medical treatment (he was born with an immune deficiency). The boys and I lived there for four years while my husband took a year and lived in Korea. The last six months we were in Texas I again took the Red Cross Volunteer Dental Assistant course. It had been almost 10 years but it was like riding a bike and I was able to move right back into that role. After a few issues with where we would be moving next, a wonderful doctor Nick had in Texas was now here in Nebraska at Offutt. He helped us with our move to Nebraska. We have been here ever since. After a few of Nick’s health issues I started Volunteering as a Dental Assistant at Offutt, which then turned to a paid position. As I worked full time at Offutt, I was also taking the rest of the pre-requisite courses at Metro Community College to apply to Dental Hygiene school. I worked at Offutt with a wonderful dentist that encouraged me to apply to Iowa Western Community Colleges Dental Hygiene program. I was accepted and had orientation in June 2006. I graduated May 2008 with my Associates of Applied Science Degree in Dental Hygiene and continued taking classes and graduated again in December of 2009 from Creighton University with my Bachelors of Science Degree in Dental Hygiene. I am also a Public Health Registered Dental Hygienist which means I can go to schools, retirement homes and other areas that other dental hygienists can’t preform services without a dentist present.

While at the Ponca Tribe I have worked with the WIC program, Iowa Western Community College students, traveled to Norfolk to fill in when needed, gone to schools for the NICE program and work with preschoolers. I, along with co-workers set up the Norfolk dental clinic. I have helped plan and implement the yearly dental part of the health fair. I have spoken at Elders Luncheons about... oral health. I enjoy these times to get to know the tribal members personally and not just in the dental office.

Other volunteer activities I have been involved with have been very fulfilling. I was the Cub Scout Den Mom for each son. Stephen became an Eagle Scout. Nick was the musician and played the trombone, tuba and baritone. He was in marching band and was able to march in the Rose Parade.

The day after my orientation for Hygiene school, I hopped on a plane to meet the Appalachian Construction Crew (ACC) volunteer group that build a home for a low-income family in Whitley City, Kentucky. This is one of the poorest counties in the United States because it is mostly National Forest with very little industry.

The ACC originated at the Offutt Chapel. Over the years many members have moved but they all converge for a week in June to build a home. I have spent a week of my vacation every other year since 2006 in Kentucky to help feed the 30-35 people that build the home. It is amazing to see this group put up a house in a week and then finish the drywall, flooring and such the second week. I have collected aluminum cans, participated in bowl-a-thons, pancake breakfasts, worked many Offutt Air Shows, dinner raffles and rented a van to drive to Kentucky for many years. I made a board with all the names of the families that homes were built for. I usually take a few cases of toothbrushes and toothpaste so the community center can give them out to anyone that needs them. I was the webmaster for the ACC until just recently.

I have participated with the Nebraska and Iowa Mission of Mercy. This is a free service to receive dental treatment. The first one I was in 2005 as a dental assistant. I hadn’t started my Hygiene career yet. I have volunteered with four Mission of Mercy in Nebraska and one in Iowa. They are long but very rewarding events. My husband and youngest son have joined me and volunteered wherever they were needed.

I am the Nebraska Dental Hygiene Association Treasurer and the Nebraska Dental Hygiene Initiative Treasurer. I am an active member of the local association and was the treasurer for the Omaha component. I received the Community Service award in 2011 and Dr. Karen Bober received the Advocate of the Year from the Omaha Dental Hygiene association in 2012. I had the pleasure of meeting Esther Wilkens, the founder of Dental Hygiene who also became a dentist has a legacy of promoting oral health.

I enjoy traveling to see family and friends that we have meet through my husbands Air Force career. I like to craft and many of the Ponca employees or members have received baby blankets that I have made for them. I enjoy needlepoint, photography and coordinating the dental part of the annual health fair.

It has been an honor and privilege to work with the Ponca Tribe of Nebraska. I have seen the tribe grow and build new sites. I have many wonderful patients that I call friends! And now we are all waiting patiently for the new Omaha clinic to be built so that many more people will have the health and dental care they need.

See you all in the clinic soon!!

The Holiday Season is ripe for financial abuse

Julie Flynn
Elder Victim Advocate

With cooler days and the smell of crisp leaves in the air, we are at the beginning of the Holiday Season and the scammers are beginning to call. During this time, many elders are a prime target for financial scams. Please beware of who is calling and the personal/financial information you are giving them.

According to National Council on Aging, in 2021, there were 92,371 older victims of fraud resulting in $1.7 billion in losses.

Some scams to be aware of:

- SOCIAL SECURITY/IRS SCAM: A caller saying there is a problem with your SSN or Account.
- GRANDPARENT SCAM: Getting a call from someone claiming they are the target’s grandchild, and that they need help now (money for bail out of state, for example) or something terrible will happen to them.
- ROMANCE SCAM: The target has been interacting with someone online. After a time they request money to come see them (they never show), or because some dire event is going to happen (i.e. eviction) and they need the target’s help out of the situation.
- SWEEPSTAKES SCAM: The target is told they have won the lottery, but that they have to pay a processing fee (with a gift card) to receive their winnings.

Look out for anyone calling and asking for a payment using the follow methods:
- Retail gift cards
- Wire Transfer
- Pre-paid debit cards
- Internet currency
- Mailing cash or someone will pick up from your address.

Note: If you are wanting to make a donation or payment to an agency or organization, please call them before disclosing of any personal information such as SSN, account numbers, pin numbers.

Familial Financial Abuse

During this holiday season while families are celebrating, with relatives visiting, and children home from school, some Elders are facing financial abuse not only by scammers but also by their own relatives.

Some financial abuse perpetrated by family members:
- The son or daughter that takes the parent to the ATM and says the machine is not working while keeping the money for themselves.
- The Auntie or Uncle shopping for the Elder and buys stuff for themselves.
- The grandchild who comes over and steals money out of the Grandparents purse/wallet, just because.

Signs of Financial Abuse

- Unusual changes in bank accounts or money management
- Unusual or quick changes in a will or other financial documents
- Fake signatures on financial documents
- Unpaid bills when there should be enough money
- Giving someone unknown to the family Power of Attorney

If you suspect Financial Abuse of an Elder, you can contact your:

- Local APS, Adult Protective Services, through Health and Human Services.
- AARP Fraud Helpline (877) 908-3360
- Local Law Enforcement
- Ombudsmen in a long term care facility
- National Elder Fraud Hotline 1-833-FRAUD-11 (1-833-372-8311)

Attention Ponca Tribe of Nebraska members:

You can access Tribal Council minutes on the tribe’s website at https://www.poncatribe-ne.org/tribal-documents/council-minutes-agendas/ (note that you must register and be logged in). These are updated as soon as approved minutes are distributed.
Hello, my name is Alyssa Escalera. I am writing this letter to introduce myself as the new Tribal Court Services Specialist. I grew up on a farm outside the small town of Hoskins, NE. My husband and I have been together for nine years. We have two daughters; Maeva is two and Tatum is five months old. We also have an Old English Bulldogge, Mowgli. Recently, we moved back to Winside, NE, where my husband and I graduated high school.

In 2018, I graduated from Wayne State College with a Bachelor’s of Science degree in human services and counseling with a minor in criminal justice. I have worked as a family service worker and a direct support professional in the past.

I am excited to be an employee for the Ponca Tribe of Nebraska. My position is included in the Tribal Court Improvement Project. This means I will be collaborating with the Tribal Court as well as the Social Services Department to increase the knowledge and awareness of assistance that can be provided to members, specifically in child welfare cases. Moreover, I will be attending trainings the beginning of the year to provide mediation services to the Ponca Tribal Court cases.

I will also be facilitating training and educational opportunities to employees at the Ponca Tribe of Nebraska as well as to community partners and to Ponca members. Please watch out for these upcoming training opportunities. The Ponca Tribe of Nebraska has grown exponentially and I look forward to seeing where it will go and how I can assist the Ponca members.

I can be reached via my office phone at (402) 371-8834 Ext. 106 or my work cell phone at (402) 266-1649. I can also be reached via email at aescalera@poncatribe-ne.org.

MEDICARE

Medicare Annual Enrollment Period began October 15, 2022 and will run through December 7, 2022. Medicare participants who currently have active Medicare Part B, Medicare Advantage and/or Medicare Part D can make changes to their health and drug plans for 2023.

Medicare Part B or Medicare Advantage participants can make any of these changes to their current plan.

1. Switch from Medicare Advantage back to Original Medicare
2. Dis-enroll from Original Medicare and enroll in Medicare Advantage
3. Change from one Medicare Advantage plan to another

Medicare Part D

1. Sign up for a Part D prescription drug plan
2. Change from one Part D prescription plan to another
3. Cancel your prescription drug coverage

If you opted out of Medicare Part D and would like to sign up for 2023, you may do so. Coverage will begin January 1, 2023. A 1% penalty fee may apply in addition to your plans monthly premium.

2023 Medicare Part B standard monthly premium will be $164.90, a decrease in $5.20 from 2022 and the annual deductible will be $226.00, a decrease of $7.

2023 Medicare Part D annual deductible will be $505, an increase of $25.00 from 2022.

FEDERAL FACILITATED MARKETPLACE (FFM)
Federal Facilitated Marketplace Annual Redetermination period will begin November 1, 2022 through January 15, 2023 for coverage in 2023.

Existing Marketplace participants will need to submit a 2023 application to determine their advance tax credit, if applicable and monthly premiums to avoid a lapse in coverage or surprise increase in monthly premiums.

NEBRASKA MEDICAID
Open Enrollment period to change a Managed Care Organization will begin November 1 – December 15, 2022

2023 Nebraska Medicaid Managed Care Organizations

- Healthy Blue of Nebraska

Focusing on our health during National Diabetes Month

Jessica Bollig
Diabetes Program
Registered Dietitian

November is National Diabetes Month. Every year, this month is important because it focuses on boosting awareness about diabetes prevention, care, education, and health outcomes. More than 35 million people in the United States have some form of diabetes, and around 25% of them aren’t even aware they have it. In addition, it is estimated that another 96 million adults in the U.S. have prediabetes, which only about 20% are aware of.

Types of diabetes.
There are a few different types of diabetes: Type 1, Type 2, and gestational diabetes.

Type 1 diabetes occurs when the body can’t produce insulin, a hormone in the pancreas that breaks down carbohydrates into blood sugar or glucose for energy. Insulin therapy helps the pancreas to function more normally.

Type 2 diabetes is the most common form of the disease, where the body is unable to process our internal insulin well enough to keep blood sugar at normal levels. Gestational diabetes develops during pregnancy in some women who don’t already have diabetes. As the body makes more hormones and the baby grows, it puts a higher demand on the pancreas to release more insulin.

Know your risk factors.
You may be predisposed to Type 2 diabetes if you are overweight, there’s family history of diabetes, you live a sedentary lifestyle, you are older than 45, if you’ve had gestational diabetes, or if you have been diagnosed with prediabetes. Weight loss is a key preventive measure. By reducing your weight by 5-7%, you can reduce your risk of getting diabetes. Exercising for 30 minutes per day, 5 days a week can lead to a great start in weight management.

How to observe National Diabetes Month
• Commit to a healthier lifestyle. We can all take a look at ways that we can live a little healthier by taking a look at our habits.

• Increasing water intake can prevent dehydration, which can keep our bodies from functioning well.

• Taking a look at our sleep habits is important. Are you getting enough sleep? Fatigue can cause a resistance to the insulin your body needs.

• Could we find ways to be a little more active each day? Exercise can prevent major spikes in our blood sugar levels, especially after meals, and can even help improve our quality of sleep.

• Be adventurous and try some new recipes and foods! Take a look at websites or cookbooks with diabetic recipes.

DIABETES: Small changes can have big results

Many common recipes have been adapted to decrease sugar, fat and calories. Adding new fruits, vegetables, and whole grain foods can help provide our bodies with the vitamins and energy it needs to function at its best.

- Be prepared for sick days. It’s always good to be prepared for an illness when you have diabetes. You could create a “sick day” kit so that you are prepared in case you need to stay home or head out to see your doctor. Things you may want to consider could be glucose monitoring supplies, glucose tablets, a thermometer, hand sanitizer, a timer to stay on top of checking your levels or anything else you can think of that you may need.

- Attend a diabetes event. During diabetes month there are typically a variety of booths, presentations, or events that you can attend at health fairs, your doctor’s office, local health center or community centers. You may learn some new information, be able to taste test some new recipes, ask questions, or bring home new education or planning materials for your own diabetes care needs.

Ponca Storyteller’s Corner

Is there anyone out there who doesn’t have a story, or a few, that means the world to them?

Stories contain worlds, convey knowledge, shape identity, live in the best parts of our hearts and memories. Without them, the world would be drab, colorless. Without them, we might wind up forgetting everything we most want to remember.

As Ponca People and as Natives, stories are particularly important to us. For thousands of years, we were an oral culture, meaning the spoken word and storytelling were among the primary ways we transmitted what we knew from generation to generation, how essential things and just lovely things moved through families, clans, and societies. Recently, as we all know, we Poncas have made our way through a kind of apocalypse. It has been difficult, tough, tragic. But we are still here and we are rebuilding, regenerating, and our story as a tribe continues. Guided by our ancestors, we persevere and go forward.

And we Ponca People still have plenty of stories--baskets, pickup trucks, and houses just full of them. They make us laugh, they make us cry, they make us who we are. We remember them from long ago when we were kids, and we remember them from yesterday. We tell them around the fire, and we tell shortened versions of them in our Facebook comments. They’re treasures; sacred, precious family belongings. But they’re also jokes, lessons, cultural history, and dreams. Aren’t they the best? Isn’t it awesome that as Ponca People we still have such a beautiful mountain of stories standing at the center of who we are as a people and as a tribe?

In this column, which I’m calling the Ponca Storytellers Corner, I’m aiming to create a place in our monthly newsletter where us Ponca can share our stories--any of them that come to mind--that are meaningful or educational to us, that need sharing or might be inspiring. My hope is that this column feeds our growth, feeds our journey, feeds our soul, because isn’t that what a good story does anyway?

It’s easy to get this ball rolling and to be a part of making this Ponca Storytellers Corner a lively, interesting place: all you have to do is email me a story. The plan is, I’ll introduce the story and then share it here, and then we’ll all have a story to think about, ponder, and absorb into our memories each month. Doesn’t that sound like a great idea? Isn’t that something you might look forward to each month when you pick up your newsletter?

This month I’ll start with a short little story my dad, Cliff Taylor Jr., messaged one day a few months back that I’ve thought about several times since. It’s a bit sad, but it’s also real, and it’s the real stories that stick with us. I share it here and hope it takes you someplace meaningful in your thoughts today.

“Here’s a story for you.”

“I can tell you when my grandma got killed and it was a closed casket. I remember we ate chicken soup for the funeral. It was snowing bad and vehicles couldn’t get up hill in the cemetery. The snow was up to my waist and I think I was 11 years old. When they finally got the casket buried, I can’t remember who, but someone pointed at this big jackrabbit and told me it was watching the whole time we were in the cemetery. After that we went home and on the 3rd day after she died we put food out for grandma. I still remember hearing the spoon moving in the bowl like someone was eating. Grandma’s spirit came...

“I don’t remember going back to Verdell until I drove there myself years later. I would have been a whole different person because she was going to raise me the traditional way. The true Ponca way.”

If you have a story you’d like to share in the Ponca Storytellers Corner, email it to cliffponca@gmail.com and jhitchcock@poncatribe-ne.org. We are richer as individuals and as a people when we share the stories we have to tell. Let’s make each other rich again as Poncas with the stories we carry.
